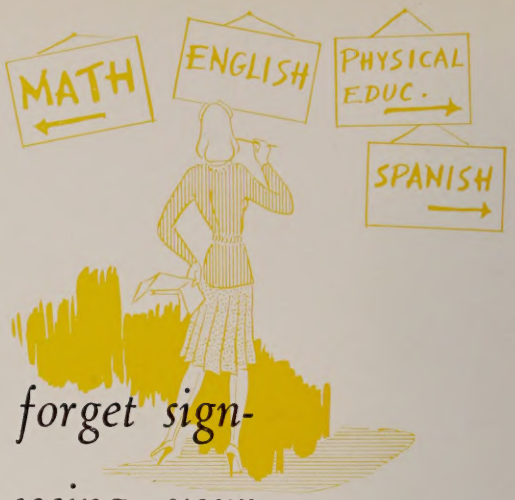
HOOD COLLEGE, FREDERICK, MARYLAND

. . . unpacking for a whole year is a job . . .

Excitement and confusion reign prevalent! It's fun showing off new clothes, greeting "roomie," and seeing that old gang again! We're glad to be back!



Will you ever forget signing all those cards, seeing your adviser, standing in that endless line, and then—that complicated schedule?

. . . . and registration came Sept. 9

. . . we wish to dedicate

Miss Nellie K. Blocher

by her charming manner, sincere understanding, and impelling personality has created for us a goal toward which we strive.

the school in the fall

The Toonerville trolley departs from campus and Hood anticipates an afternoon of roller skating, merry-go-rounding and bowling, plus a delicious picnic supper.

Braddock Picnic

Little sisters triumphant! It wasn't hard for the Juniors to be vanquished on Campus Day by these special members of their own college family. We only hope they gain the object of their hunting expedition for knowledge. What could escape those 160 members of the Freshmen exploring party?

But we came in second! We are equally proud of that. We broke our own defeatist idea that '42 would never get anything but fourth place on Campus Day by our band of drum majorettes putting "Hood on Parade."

We like the Sophomore and Senior Classes, and we admit the Alpine-climbing Sophs, and student prince Seniors were good—but we have to gloat a little over our own particular success!

for a good time was had by all

Choir

Can anyone forget the Christmas festivities? Was there one among us who failed to bubble over with Christmas joy and reflect from head to toe that "peace and good will" sentiment? Unquestionably you'll agree that, as far as Hood is concerned, no such person could be found.

Oh, yes, it all started casually enough. Before we realized it we were in the throes of the Round Robin Teas. You will recall how the faculty trotted about from various dormitories, chatting gaily and shaking hands, while tasting the various efforts of Mrs. Parker, Miss Loomis, and Miss Rudy.

Then came Sunday, with morning communion and afternoon and evening Christmas Vespers. The greens, the rows 'n' rows of candles, the choir and the impressive Christmas music will forever remain a part of those "golden memories." Yes, it was a real outpouring of religious spirit—but who is not inspired at such a time?

Rushing on in the wake of Vespers was the annual Christmas Banquet. The picture included formal dress, student rivalry for the finest table decorations, the lighted tree, the Yule Log ceremonies, the Nursery School at little tables with Santa Claus, in person, and then the feast with all the fixin's. Then, too, came the annual activities of the "Y," baskets and gifts for the needy in addition to their Christmas parties.

All leads to the climax—the last day. Long before daybreak, we struggled sleepily into our clothes, and set out in darkness. What a thrill we got from singing the good old Christmas carols. And we received a real welcome for our songs—maybe the bags of candy we passed out helped. It is just as well we do not know how the faculty reacted to our efforts, but to return to campus, we have the final hustle and bustle to pack, joyful exchanges of greeting, cheers, songs, farewells, autos, taxis, trains—homeward bound to eats, treats, and dates!

'twas the night before christmas vacation

Christmas

We cram all day, and we burn the light all night. We wonder how we could have forgotten everything so quickly. We consume quantities of food and an amazing amount of coffee. We discover all sorts of strange nooks and crannies in which to study . . . and we think the week will never end!

Exams

Everyone has a good time at an all-college dance. We live in days of anticipation until the gala night finally arrives. We rush through dinner at the F. S. K. and go back to the dorm to put on our newest and most flattering dress. Then we arrive at Coblentz to join the crowd of dancing couples. There are palms, colored lights, and a smooth swing band . . . but it's all over so quickly!

Let the band swing out

The joyful day is heralded by the father-daughter baseball game and progresses to a spectacular horse show. The long-awaited coronation adds an appropriate finishing touch to the afternoon as "Druckie" is pronounced Queen of the May by Prince Hood (Anne Coulter) among a lovely court of Hood's prettiest and most popular.

May Day

The Senior Class play, "The Dragon," initiates a pleasant evening, which is followed by dancing in Coblentz and fun at a gypsy bazaar in the outdoor smoker.

RIDDLE

Their accomplishments are many though their numbers are few. Hood will be different when they leave for they've been grand to know. We'll miss them. They have distinction and talent. At first they were rivals of ours and now we are the best of friends.

Who are they? . . . Why, of course, the "Grand Old Seniors"!

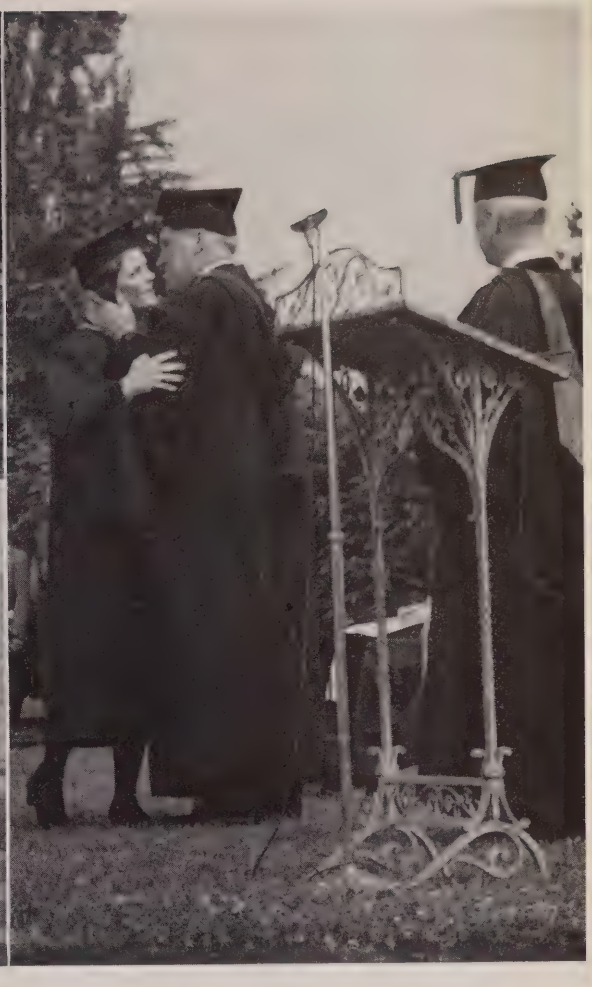
Class Day

A lovely picture of Seniors in pastel dresses amid the Sophomores' stately laurel chain reflects memories of class songs and years they can't forget.



There is a touch of sorrow on the eventful day when the Ever-Dignified don cap and gown to receive their long-awaited sheepskin. Thus, with light hearts, the Seniors step up to take their place in the world.
